This year the Baltic Assembly, as any other organisation, has been significantly affected by the COVID-19 pandemic. Despite the difficulties and restrictions to meet in person, the traditions of our organisation continue but in slightly different format this year.

We award the Baltic Assembly Prizes to outstanding people, who have demonstrated excellence in literature, the arts, science and innovation. This year's winners of the Baltic Assembly Prizes have used their talent and knowledge to encourage thinking, remind about the historical milestones of the Baltic states and make our countries visible in the international arena. Awards have been won in strong competition, as the decision was made by competent international jury. My special thanks go to this year's jury for their excellent work.

We also congratulate the people for their significant contribution to strengthening the unity and cooperation of the Baltic states. Medals of the Baltic Assembly will be awarded to people who not only care about our Baltic nations, but also contribute to the targeted cooperation of our states and prosperity of our Baltic region that will be extremely important in the years to come. These people promote the unity and cooperation of the Baltic states - we greatly appreciate their work.

Unity and cooperation of the Baltic states are extremely important for us. We are thankful to all people who feel the same way and act in order to bring the countries closer together. The awarding of the Baltic Assembly Prizes and Medals in Estonia, Lithuania and Latvia is our way of saying that even though times are tough people are those who hold our nations together and we are grateful for that. We are also very proud about their achievements.

On behalf of the Baltic Assembly, I congratulate all who have been awarded the Prizes and Medals of the Baltic Assembly.

The Baltic Assembly Prize for Literature 2020 is awarded to Birutė Jonuškaitė from Lithuania for her novel cycle “Maranta” and “Maestro”, which belong with the long, branched-out texts that weave numerous storylines and created detailed characters, which possess the versatility and depth of the classic canon, and which raise the language to the appropriate heights also for the hefty book of conversations “Laikas ir likimai” (“Time and Destiny”).

Birutė Jonuškaitė is a prose writer, an excellent translator, essayist, publicist, journalist and poet. She was born on 5 October in 1959 in Poland but lives in Lithuania from 1985. She has written short stories, novels, poems, essays and interviews. Birutė Jonuskaite’s short stories and poetry have been translated into English, French, Belarusian, German, Russian, Ukrainian, Polish, Georgian, Croatian, Slovenian, Slovak, Czech and Spanish.

The first part of the dilogy “Maranta”, constructed from real characters and historical events, highlights the fates of three generations of women, whose stories are told by the young artist Rasa. The second part “Maestro” is a novel about the talented painter Viktor and his artistic creation peculiarities. Birutė Jonuškaitė cares how from a poor childhood it is possible to become a famous creator of works of art. The book of conversations “Time and Destiny”, however, is about the meetings with Lithuanian and Polish Authors.

Winner of the Baltic Assembly Prize for the Arts

The Baltic Assembly Prize for the Arts 2020 is awarded to Kristīne Briede from Latvia and Audrius Stonys from Lithuania for meditative documentary essay “Bridges of Time” (2018), which was co-produced by Lithuanian, Latvian and Estonian studios and portrays the less-remembered generation of cinema poets of the Baltic New Wave.

Kristine Briede is a Latvian film maker of cultural and social issues who has received numerous recognitions for her projects in the fields of art, cinema and society integration. Audrius Stonys on the other hand is a globally acclaimed Lithuanian documentary film maker. These authors directed together the Latvian, Lithuanian and Estonian awarded documentary film “Bridges of Time”.

“Bridges of Time” is a wonderful film that observes the works of the film directors of so-called Baltic New Way which is certain original style in documentary film making in 1960s of three Baltic States. In 1960s, the Baltic states were very known for their documentary films. In particular they were known for their special style - poetic documentary. Its main practitioners are Herz Frank, Ulvis Brauns, Ivars Selekis, Mark Soosaar, Andres Sööt, Robertas Sverba and others. They push the boundaries of what was accepted in the Soviet times. As there were obstacles that did not allowed them to explore the horizon they went up to the vertical. Instead they spoke about the timeless things that matter always independently of what regime is ruling or which year is in the calendar. Thus, the Baltic poetic documentary cinema created an independent world free from ideology, lies and propaganda. It was a declaration of inner freedom. In their film the authors managed to go far beyond the limits of common historiographic investigation. The authors managed to highlight the poetic aspect of the film. The result is truly cinematic poem about cinema poets.

The Baltic Assembly Prize for Science 2020 is awarded to Roberts Eglītis for work cycle: “Theoretical predictions of new materials for energy storage and harvesting”.

Roberts Eglītis was born in Riga in 1966. He finished Latvian State University and then spent a lot of time working in excellent scientific centres all around the globe - in Europe, Asia and the US. When he collected a lot of experience, he came back to Riga and now works in the Solid-State Physics Institute in Riga. The Institute is known around the globe for different solutions and inventions in the field of solid matter. Roberts Eglītis Hirsch index is 33 and it is still growing.

He has around 366 publications and is still very active in his field.

In the beginning of 21st century, Roberts Eglītis with his co-authors was the first in the world who theoretically proved possibility to reach 5-volts battery that means longer performance time of the devices which are on batteries. All batteries currently around the world are 4-volts batteries. The research of Roberts Eglītis is important as scientists all over the world are searching the way to improve the batteries. Research of Roberts Eglītis is very important for the human kind as lives will improve when 5-volts batteries will reach the market.

Nominees for the Baltic Innovation Prize 2020

Baltic Innovation Prize is being awarded for outstanding achievement in innovation and new technologies, as well as for the strengthening of cooperation of the Baltic states in innovation and technological development.

- KAPPAZETA OÜ (Estonia) – winner

A science-driven radar remote sensing company and its goal is to make space a valuable asset for everyone. The key area the company focuses on is agriculture. With the growing global population there is increasing pressure to produce more food every year, but land suitable for agriculture is at the same time decreasing. They believe that with timely information extracted from satellite data, farmers can make better decisions, earn more profit and ultimately grow better food.

- PERUZA SIA (Latvia)

A process engineering and equipment manufacturing company. Their products let the clients produce more quality product at less cost. The company creates and produces production equipment mainly for the food processing industry, especially for fish processing.

- LEMONA UAB (Lithuania)

A global leader in the Baltic region whose main field of activity is wholesale and retail trade in various electronic components, tools, materials, as well as smart home and business solutions. A successful company activity in Lithuania has created favourable conditions for its expansion abroad.
